Programme

constructsteel

Positioning steel in construction

We are delighted to announce that the 2024 Annual constructsteel Conference will take place in Charlotte, North Carolina, United States on 23 October 2024. The conference theme chosen this year is "Positioning steel in construction,". The theme is opportune and aims to address important topics impacting the global steel construction industry.

The conference programme indicates that we are not aiming for a local event per se but to discuss the biggest issues globally impacting steel construction. These include, among others, the impact of government regulations on steel construction, the opportunity for AI in construction and the role of steel in disaster prevention and restoration. At the same time, a session related to steel-timber hybrid construction is included in the programme; the goal of this session is to explore ways steel and timber may act together in symbiosis and to leverage their advantages towards increased sustainability in construction.

At the same time and for the second year, we will host the constructsteel Awards. The Awards will recognise and celebrate stakeholders of the steel industry in three categories: Best Project, Innovation of the year, and Excellence in Sustainability.

I take the opportunity to thank the members of constructsteel, stakeholders of the steel construction industry and particularly Nucor for inviting us to host our annual conference at Charlotte NC, United States.

Regards,

Terrence Busuttill
Director, constructsteel
